OUT 21 BATTERS AT FT. SHAFTER

Knight never knew when another was coming out of the clear sky, but two strike outs in succession helped Knight out of a nasty hole in the first, and Knight's fielding in the third, fifth and sixth, stopped the tallies with the assistance of the man at first hotel, and the strike out arm did the duty in the eighth and ninth with big chances to score.

A bonehead play was pulled off by Doren in the fifth inning, when Petroski took a very wide margin off third, there being two men out, and then Trotter threw a return ball to Doren, which Doren thought must be properly mustered, inspected and the seams counted, and while he was doing all this fine work, Petroski decided that he might as well go home and look at the rivets in the rubber home plate, which he did and had time to spare in order to see how nicely Sergeant Culpepper in charge of the grounds had fixed up the home plate and batters' box and also earned a run. Trotter, the catcher, was a new man, but barring the nervousness incident upon a first appearance before the august multitude will do very well, as he warmed up to the game, caught better every inning and with coaching will make a splendid man for A Company in the future: COMPANY A
